In Memory of Ah Goung

We are a first-generation Chinese American family raised in Fort Lee, NJ. Four out of the five of the siblings graduated from the Fort Lee High School between 1993 to 2006. This scholarship is offered in memory of our grandfather, Koh Ah Heng and this is his story.

Grandpa, Ah Goung, was born in Fujian, China around 1916-17, roughly two or three years after the start of WWI and around the time when Gregory Peck was born. After losing his father at the age of three, his widowed mother raised him and his younger brother under extreme poverty in rural China. At the age of 20, he was drafted by the military, though it is unclear which military as things were quite a mess in China post imperialism. To dodge the draft, he followed a relative and traveled to Singapore which was probably how he acquired the romanization of his Chinese name "Koh".

Ah Goung's life continued to drift when Singapore fell under the Japanese invasion during WWII. He found himself sailing across the seas to the United States as seaman on the SS Cardium and arrived in Ellis Island on 12/5/1941. A second hand account from a relative painted an overwhelmed and confused Ah Goung on his first visit to New York as he got lost in the web of the subway system.

Ah Goung remained rootless as he left the U.S. for England after WWII ended. Even though the Chinese Exclusion Act was repealed in 1943, we suspect Ah Goung was still subjected to limited employment opportunities, financial hardship and social discrimination. At this point, he had been separated from his family in China for over 20 years. In 1960's, a younger fellow from the family's village was working on a ship that docked in London. He was too young to know Ah Goung when Ah Goung left the village, but he had heard the tales of our grandfather and searched for him. Fatefully, he found Ah Goung who was working in a restaurant and spent the night at Ah Goung's. Before the villager left next morning, Ah Goung entrusted £15 with the villager which used it to acquire valuables and rare materials such as fabric, wool and food for Ah Goung's family. This encounter reconnected Grandpa with his family and Grandpa started to communicate with his family regularly, mostly in form of financial support.

With the money he expatriated to his family, his mother and brother was able to build two houses. It turned out these two houses not only provided shelter for the family but elevated the family's status. Mom would retell us with muse that her blind marriage to my dad was sealed by the houses. When her family visited dad's family, her sister-in-law sized up and reported back on the financial well being of the future in-laws based on the houses. While he provided for the family, Ah Goung never reunited with his mother who passed away in mid 1960's. We assumed he never got married (or at least we are not aware if he did). He never had a son, and his younger brother offered his first-born son, my dad, to Ah Goung who became his only son. Ah Goung and dad would meet for the first time in dad's late twenties. We later found out through public record research that he married a woman named Alice W. Roland in Liverpool sometime in April to June 1947. Mom vaguely recalls that Ah Goung mentioned he had a family and a daughter who he left behind in England.

Grandpa's family: His mom in the middle, my dad is on the far right and his younger brother to my dad's left. Even with the financial support from Ah Goung, the family still lived in modern day poverty. In the picture, dad's youngest brother is wearing a hand-me-down dress from his older sister and kids did not have shoes.

In 1979, Ah Goung left everything he had in Canterbury, England and joined our family in Hong Kong where our family had immigrated to. The eldest three siblings had spent nearly six years with Ah Goung before the family was uprooted once again and immigrated to the U.S. in 1985. Sadly, Ah Goung could not come with us. He was handicapped by arthritis. In fact, most of our childhood memories of him were filled with imagery of a bedridden, chain-smoking old man who had been roughened and toughened by the hardness of life. His hands trembled and his handwriting was slow and choppy. He was an excellent cook but limited by his immobility. After tasting a meal he prepared once, I can empathize with his dissatisfaction with my mother's cooking. We gathered in his room often because the TV was there and he would never turned us away. Perhaps he wanted to keep us happy too because we were his connections to the outside world. He never left the 400 square feet apartment for six. The kids were his personal shoppers for the newspaper and we restocked his cigarettes (this is back in the days when no one would bat an eye to sell cigarettes to a 7 years old).

He passed away shortly after we moved to the U.S. We have so much that we wanted to ask him. We imagine there were a lot of loneliness and fear as he spent most of his adulthood away from his family and his native home and drifted from one place to the next. He never discussed the hardship with the grandchildren. Instead he kept giving to his family, even as he neared the end of his life, he lamented that he wished he could be by my parents' side to help care for us.

This scholarship is established to honor the memory of our grandfather, his dedication to our family and persistence to overcome hardships and challenges in his life.

Because of his contribution to the family, we are able to live a fuller life in the U.S. and reach for our dreams.

Attached is an official record of our grandfather's residence in the UK In 1977.
